Cotton quota vote is Dec. 14

The outcome of the cotton quota referendum vote on December 14, will determine the level of price support for cotton produced in 1955 and therefore is of vital concern to every cotton grower. Says Mr. John C. Crowder, chairman of the Bulloch County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Several taxpayers contributed over half the support of the referendum. It was a person, whom any one of them could claim as a dependent, may agree to let one of them take the dependent. A child, stepchild or adopted child, meeting other dependency tests, can earn more than $600 per year and still qualify as your dependent if he is under 19 years of age, or if for five months of your taxable year, he is a full time student at a regular school or college, or is training full time on the farm under supervision of a state agency or educational institution. Do not overlook the fact that a child earning $600 or more a year, even though he is qualified as a dependent, he must file a tax return for the year.

The referendum program will be in effect for the next year's crop, the chairman explained, if at least two-thirds of the votes cast in the referendum are in favor of the program. In that case, price support will be available for the 1955 crop of upland cotton at a level between 82 and one-half per cent of parity. If more than one-third of the votes are against quotas, the price level to eligible growers would drop to 80 per cent of parity.

The choice before cotton growers, essentially is whether or not they want a reduced acreage and price support between 82 and one-half and 90 per cent of parity. He explains that acreage allotments will be in effect even though quotas are disapproved; compliance with such cotton allotments and with any other crop allotments established for the year will be required for eligibility for price support, no matter what the level of support.

Chairman Crowder urges all growers to vote in the referendum. In his opinion, the decision will have far-reaching effects, and the question of the referendum should be carefully considered vote of all who grow cotton.

The referendum will be held between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. on December 14 at the regular polling places.

Georgia produced 2.4 billion bales of cotton in 1953, the highest level in the history of the state. The 1954 report is expected to show approximately the same amount.

High box was shipped yesterday. Mrs. Emma Kelle and her daughters, Phoebe and Jackie, left for Atlanta.

'What youth can do to help the farmer co-ops meet farmer needs'

Editor's Note: Below is a speech by Mary Ansley, president, Future Homemakers of America, Brooklet, Georgia, and presented at the Youth Sectional Meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation, August 18.

I am from a little community in the tobacco-growing section of Georgia. My father is a Methodist preacher, and the people whom he serves and among whom we live are people who can look out over their green growing fields, people who work on the land and love it, who know what it means to be neighbors in good times and bad.

I think that people in our part of this great country have always known in their hearts that the tobacco-growing section of Georgia now is producing 18 per cent of the South's production of pulpwood and 11 per cent of the nation's output.

Electrifying The Farm Beats Moving To Town!

230,000 RURAL GEORGIANS say this is true! They are member-owners of Georgia's 41 Rural Electric Cooperatives—and have invested over $800,000,000 to bring power to those who want and need it—in sparsely settled areas.

And the electrification of rural Georgia has made farm living so convenient, economical and comfortable that droves of city folks are deserting congested areas to move into God's open country. Now they, too, can enjoy all creature comforts that have for so long been taken for granted in the cities.

This was not always true! Only twenty about years ago less than 3 farms out of 100 were electrified. Today 9 out of ten enjoy electrical living—brought to them through non-profit CO-OP ELECTRIC POWER.

It took much COOPERATION to accomplish this "household revolution." The profit-utilities said it couldn't be done profitably! Through REA, our federal government loaned Georgia's CO-OPs funds to build the lines. These loans are being repaid—WITH INTEREST—on or before due dates. Rural Electrification has not cost the nation's taxpayers a SINGLE PENNY!

GALA PARTY FOR BRIDGE CLUB AND OTHER GUESTS

Mrs. G. C. Coleman Jr. was hostess to the Half-High Bridge Club and other guests Friday afternoon at her home on Leo street.

An arrangement of magnolia leaves and Hawaiian wood roses with Christmas bells was placed on a table in the entrance hall. The living room, the mantel had angels and candles at each end. Christmas bells and gold rope formed a lovely central decoration.

The club's colors, red and gold, were used throughout the decorations. There were red streamers from the overhead lights and a white fireplace mantel.

At one end of the club, a small Christmas tree was lighted. The table was overlaid with a white cloth and red ribbon running lengthwise. A star-shaped cake was placed at one end around a large red candle.

Guests were seated at round tables with white cloths and red ribbon runners. The tables were decorated with white and red.
